

Tax hike seen despite schools tax rate drop

By Lynne Locke

School district tax rates will drop this year for Upland residents, but over - all tax bills will be higher for many residents whose home assessed valuations have risen sharply.

Upland Elementary School District, Chaffey Joint Union High School District, and Chaffey Community College District all anticipate higher revenues even though tax rates will be decreased slightly at the elementary school and college level and substantially at the high school level.

The Upland School District Board of Trustees has approved a $9-million budget, an increase of $1 million over the 1976-77 budget.

Based on the "substantial" increase in Upland's assessed valuation, the school district's general fund tax rate is expected to drop 1 1/2 cents to a tax rate of $2.6915 - or $100 of assessed valuation, according to Superintendent George Renworth.

The $9-million budget is technically a deficit budget, because it anticipates using close to $300,000 from the district's reserve funds.

Not included in the 1977-78 budget is an additional $1.5 million of federal funds the district expects to receive for rehabilitation of Upland Elementary School.

Renworth said approval of that funding is expected by September with actual work starting by January. The funding would be received under the federal Public Works bill which is intended to reduce unemployment in construction trades.

The approved budget reinstates an instructional aide program and expands a number of other district programs. The budget also reflects increased costs ranging from salaries to insurance.

The budget allocates $60,000 for hiring 25 classroom instructional aides, which were cut in order to provide a balanced budget during the 1976-77 year.

The budget also provides for hiring of enough teachers to serve an additional 150 students, which may enter the district as a result of completion of new homes.

Some $77,000 in state funds will be used to improve district reading instruction. The funds will provide in-service training for elementary and junior high school reading teachers.

The budget includes additional funds to expand the district's programs for physically handicapped students to include Pioneer Junior High School. Pioneer students had been attending a class at Upland Junior High.

Classified and certified employees will receive a 5.6-percent cost-of-living increase under a two-year contract which provided for a 6.1 increase last year.

The budget also reflects higher costs for employee benefits including a 39-percent increase in Blue Cross premiums.

Another district cost which has increased significantly is liability insurance at $59,500, a 70-percent increase from the $35,000 figure for 1976-77.

Other increases in the budget include additional funding for supplies, materials and textbooks to continue and improve instructional programs.

High school district
Increases in assessed valuations are expected to result in a 32-cent decrease in the tax rate for the Chaffey Joint Union High School District, according to Superintendent Mike Dirksen.

The district trustees have approved a $27,988,214 budget for the 1977-78 year, an increase of $700,000 from the 1976-77 budget. The tax rate is expected to be set at $2.30 per $100 of assessed valuation, compared to $2.62 last year.

Dirksen said the budget does not include salary increases, yet to be negotiated between the district and teachers.

The $28-million budget provides essentially the same level of instructional programs as the district provided during the past year.

The budget increase mainly reflects inflationary increases in costs, according to Dirksen who noted that liability insurance represents the largest increase in the budget.

The 1977-78 budget includes about $245,000 for liability insurance compared to $145,000 the previous year and only $45,000 two years ago.

He said many school districts are having difficulty finding companies which will provide liability insurance and added that the Chaffey district will study the possibility of self-insurance for the future.

One piece of good news for the district was that the cost of medical benefits for employees increased only 3 percent this year compared with a 33-percent increase in the past.

Chaffey College

Chaffey Community College Board of Trustees has approved a $19.9-million budget for the 1977-78 school year. The budget, totaling $19,968,179, is an increase of nearly $2.5 million over the previous year.

The expected tax rate is 62.41 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. The rate would be a decrease of seven-tenths of a cent from last year's rate of 63.12 cents.

The majority of the increase will fund construction of an auto shop laboratory and vocational education building. The college is sharing the cost of the $4-million building with the state.

The budget also includes employee raises with teachers and classified employees receiving a 6.5-percent increase and confidential employees receiving an 8.5-percent increase.

Volunteers give their attention to Christmas

By Lynne Locke

While most West End residents are experiencing the hot, smoggy weather of a Southern California summer, others have all their attention on Christmas.

Volunteers work on Christmas toys and presents throughout the year just for "the satisfaction of knowing that children will have something for Christmas," according to Cucamonga Esther Aanstad, who is secretary for Santa Claus Inc.

Each year the nonprofit organization provides Christmas presents for more than 4,000 local children, from birth to 14 years old.

The goal of two toys and new clothing for each child keeps many volunteers working year-round renovating toys and sewing clothing.

Volunteers range in age from the teenage Ticktocks of the National Charity League to an 88-year-old volunteer who has sewn 4,000 girls' outfits each year for the past 18 years.

Additional volunteers are needed to knit sweaters, sew girls' pantsuits, and dress Christmas dolls.

More than 1,100 girls pantsuits have been made, but sewers are needed to make 900 more, according to coordinator Evelyn Werkman of the Pomona-Montclair area.

Knitters are also needed to create the bright sweaters children will receive as part of the Christmas present. Both pant suit material and knitting yarn are provided for the workers who can do the sewing and knitting in their own homes.

Uplander Nina Hayes, doll coordinator, is seeking volunteers to adopt 700 dolls to dress. Once the dolls are dressed by the volunteers, Mrs. Hayes replaces missing eyelashes, and the dolls are good as new for a little girl's Christmas present.

Materials are also needed to help Santa Claus Inc. do its yearly job of providing Christmas magic. Mrs. Aanstad said sewing materials and yarn, and used blankets for crib covers are always welcome.

Large toys such as wagons, tricycles and skates are also needed, but Santa Claus Inc. already has its full set of bicycles, she noted.

Books, games, dolls, and miscellaneous toys are all needed, but perhaps the most unusual need is extra toy wheels to replace missing wheels.

Many local organizations and individuals assist each year with the work which must be finished by Thanksgiving in order to be ready for local children in December.

Montclair groups supporting the Santa Claus Inc. include the Montclair Kiwanis Club and the Ontario-Montclair Junior Women's Club, which assists with distribution.

In Upland supporting groups include Upland Kiwanis, National Charity League Ticktocks, and Upland Woman's Club as well as many other organizations.

Supporters in the tricomunity area include the Girl Scouts, who recently held a toy drive; Cucamonga Junior High School students; and the Cucamonga-Alta Loma Woman's Club, which makes crib covers in addition to making a financial donation.

Local residents who work hard to make the yearly effort a success include Earl Molitor of Montclair, wood toy repair; and Irene McGauch of Cucamonga, crib covers.

Upland volunteers are Ruth Stewart and Georgia Percy, boys' sewing; Marguerite Courtney, stuffed toys and jewelry; Ed Solari, trucks and cars; and Ed Bordenkircher and Manuel Rodriguez, toy drives and distribution.

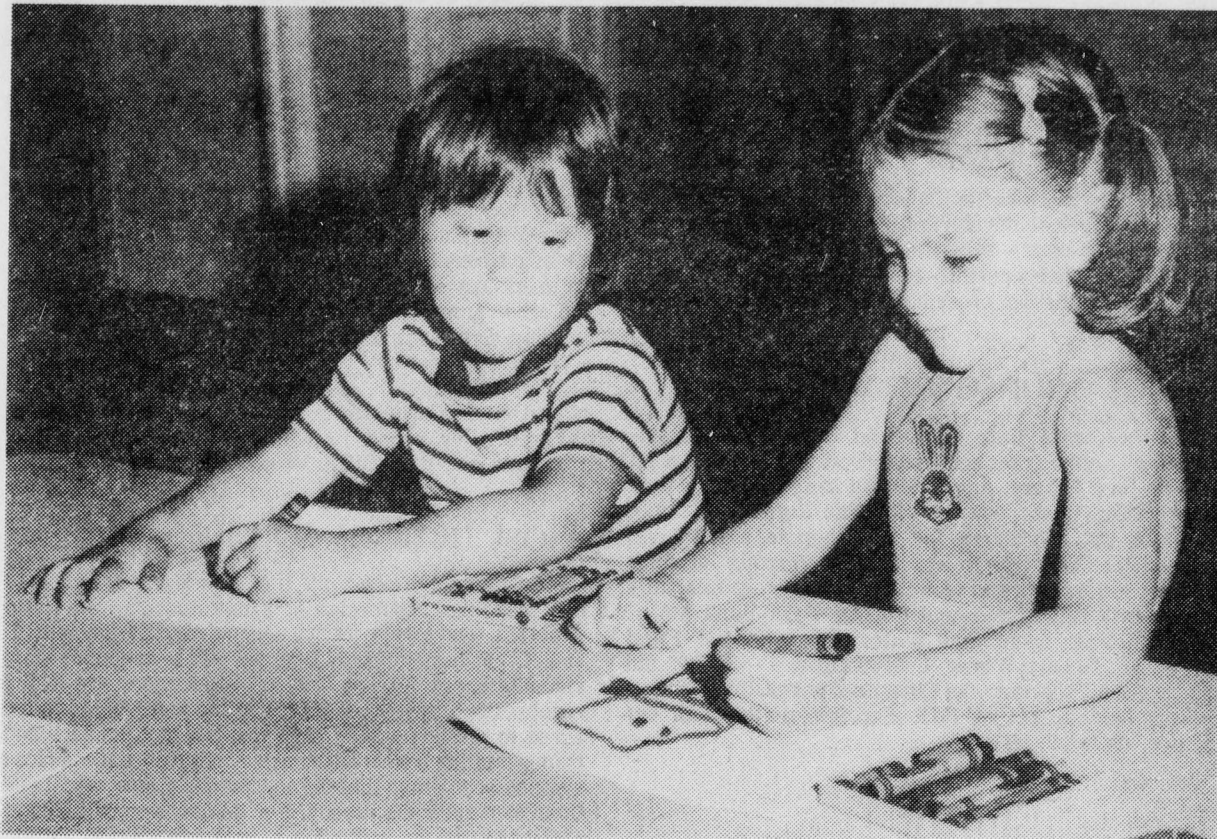

Once the volunteers have done all the work of repairing donated toys and making new clothing, the distribution process begins.

Needy families are referred by county nurses, Salvation Army, and county welfare workers, with screening by the Salvation Army.

The majority of the 1,200 families served each year represent families where women are raising children alone, Mrs. Aanstad said, noting that the gift process is arranged to maintain each family's privacy.

Once families have been designated by the Salvation Army, the parents visit the Santa Claus Inc. workshop in Ontario to choose the toys and clothing that best fit their children's needs and interests.

People who would like to volunteer time or donate toys or materials should call Santa Claus Inc., 984-6627. The office, 1330 E. D St., Ontario, is open 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Basic mathematics test required for incoming UHS freshmen

Incoming freshmen in the Chaffey Joint Union High School District will have to pass a basic math test in order to graduate.

State law requires this year's freshmen students to pass basic skills test in both mathematics and English in order to graduate.

The math test, formulated to determine whether students have the survival skills needed for adult life, tests skills students are supposed to have learned in elementary and junior high school.

The test will be given to ninth graders at the beginning of the school year. Those who pass the test will not have to take it again during their high school careers.

Students who fail the test would take it again at the end of the freshman year. Those who fail a second time would take remedial classes in order to gain the skills necessary for passing the test.

Math instructors will use the test results to determine the types of problems students need to study in regular and remedial classes.

In order to pass the test a student must correctly answer 50 percent of the questions in each section of the test.

Only 21.4 percent of sophomores passed the test when they took it without preparation last year. District officials believe another 11 percent of the students could have passed the test with a brief review.

Those students correctly answered 70 percent of the questions over-all, but did not receive a 50 percent score in every section.

The fractions section was the hardest for students with 50 percent failing to answer half the questions correctly.

Some 40 percent of the students failed a practical skills section which included figuring out a finance charge and finding a mistake on a receipt.

Sample tests showing the ranging of questions have been mailed to parents of incoming ninth graders who must show they have mastered the skills before they will be able to graduate.

The district has not yet determined whether students who cannot pass the math test will receive a certificate in place of the regular diploma.

Energy program

The Community Services Department (CSD) Weatherization Program, responsible for providing free insulation and weatherstripping services for the homes of those who qualify, has developed an educational program aimed at teaching San Bernardino County children how to conserve energy and how to get their parents involved, too.

An outreach team from CSD visits one to two elementary schools per day and puts on a puppet show for the children and teachers. The show is aimed at arousing enough concern and awareness in the children to stimulate the development of energy saving habits.

The Southern California Edison Co. does their part by contributing a packet called "Energy Conservation Classroom Kits" for grades one through three and four through six. A teacher's manual is included with a wall chart, booklets in English and Spanish, student certificates to be awarded at the completion of the conservation program and a cardboard attaché case saying, "Project Energy."

Another new service from the weatherization program is the free installation of a reflective film called Alumakool to mobile homes that qualify. It is a transparent sheet of mylar containing properties that reflect the sun's rays, thereby keeping it cool in the summer and shielding against the cold of winter by acting as insulation.

Social Security recipients and interested parties are encouraged to call 383-3561 or 383-1153 for further information or application for the services offered.

$646,578 goal for fund drive

A goal of $646,578 has been set for the 1977-78 fund drive of the West End United Way. Homer Briggs, campaign chairman, announced during a recent combined meeting of the executive committee and campaign cabinet.

The goal is 10.47 per cent increase over last year.

Launching the fund drive on Sept. 15 at the Elks Club in Ontario will be a luncheon when agency representatives, volunteers, cabinet members and executive board members will be introduced.

Dick Verrue is serving as campaign co-chairman. Campaign cabinet leaders and divisions were announced by Briggs as follows:

Division A, covering firms and organizations involving 250 or more persons, Sherwin Grossman; Division B, firms and organizations involving 50 to 249 persons, Jay Holmes; Division C, firms and organizations involving 1 to 49 persons, Johnnie Stone; Division D, individual businesses and social agencies, John Schnepf; out of area monies, Briggs; Division F, professionals (physicians, lawyers, etc.), Jackie Jeffrey; Division G, residential, Ernest Payne; and federal division, Chuck

Linch Jr. Goals for each of the divisions were announced by Briggs as follows:

Division A, $340,409; Division B, $147,379; Division C, $38,240; Division D, $18,985; Division E, $59,387; Division G, $24,590; and federal, $88,500.

According to Ralph Stillings, executive director of the West End United Way, the fund drive has the potential of raising well over each individual goal and bringing in a total of $698,065, or $51,487 over the major goal.

Monies raised will be used to support the 31 agencies of the West End United Way and the American Cancer Society. The Cancer Society joined the United Way in July and individuals taking payroll deductions in industry, commerce and professional areas will have donations to the society included.

The agencies are the following:

Open fire ban looms in forests

Open fires may be eliminated in the Cucamonga wilderness area and other national forests throughout the state, following an assessment study now being conducted by the U.S. Forest Service.

Loren Jones, resource officer at the Lytle Creek ranger station, said there are only five locations where open camp fires are permitted now in the Cucamonga wilderness and those will probably be eliminated because of the high fire risk this season.

He said the five locations are presently marked by yellow posts - three at Third Stream Camp, and two at Comanche camp but that several unauthorized campfires have been found in those areas.

Jones said approximately 10 citations have been issued for the illegal camp fires, carrying a $30 fine.

In addition to the usual patrol of rangers during the weekends, a USFS trail crew has been working the area and they are authorized to issue citations, Jones said.

Jones emphasized the following rules for use of national forests:

- Clear a 30-foot circle around cooking area.
- If cooking on burners, campers and hikers must take a shovel with them.
- No smoking on the trails.
- A camping or hiking permit must be obtained from the nearest ranger station before entering the wilderness area.

County, employees agree to three-year contract

By PETER WONG

A contract which grants most county employees pay raises amounting to 15 per cent over three years was ratified Monday by the board of supervisors.

The agreement was reached between the county administration and the San Bernardino Public Employees Association, which represents 6,300 of more than 7,000 county employees.

Dr. William J. Moore, chairman of the county's Employee Relations Committee, said the contract would secure "three years of peace and stability in employer-employee relations for San Bernardino County."

"I believe it will facilitate the financial planning which this board has a major responsibility to conduct," Moore, president of Crafton Hills Community College in Yucaipa, told the supervisors.

"It also gives employees a clear picture of their income, benefits and working conditions for the next three years."

As ratified by the employees Friday and by the supervisors Monday, the contract will offer the following:

— Pay increases totaling 15 per cent over the next three years. (The contract, which is retroactive to July 1, will expire June 30, 1980.)

— Pay adjustments which account for another 3 per cent over the next three years. However, the adjustments, which are intended to correct inequities in salaries, will not be granted to every employee, Moore said.

— Improved health and dental insurance benefits, plus the establishment of a life insurance program.

— Adjustments in overtime pay.

In turn, the association agreed to several provisions the county administration sought during the negotiations, including:

— Recognition of county government's authority to assert its management rights.

— No reopening of negotiations over pay or benefits during the contract's three-year term.

— No encouragement of work disruption as part of any labor dispute.

Martin E. Nelson, assistant county administrative officer for personnel, said those provisions were included in contracts with other county employee groups.

"This definitely contributed to the long time that was taken to resolve language matters (in the contract)," Moore said.

"But what has emerged as a result of these negotiations are very complete contracts spelling out all of the matters relating to employer-employee relations for the full term of this agreement....

"I'm pleased especially for myself to have helped mediate and negotiate myself out of a job for the next three years."

With the ratification of the contract with the San Bernardino Public Employees Association, which represents six of eight county employee groups, negotiations with all employee groups have been completed.

In recent weeks, the supervisors have ratified contracts with the Sheriff's Employees Benefit Association, which represents 550 deputy sheriffs and deputy marshals as a group and the 100 sergeants, lieutenants and captains in the sheriff's and marshal's departments.

Richard Stearns, general manager of the San Bernardino Public Employees Association, described the contract as a "landmark" one and said, "We think it addresses concerns of both sides."

Supervisors' Chairman Robert O. Townsend of Chino agreed, saying, "It is a good agreement — meaning something that is agreeable and workable for all parties involved."

Supervisors ok water contracts

County supervisors have approved two contracts calling for continued use of flood control district facilities to spread waters acquired by the Chino Basin Water Conservation District.

The contracts cover agreements for Ely Basin No. 3 and Turner Basin. The Ely agreement is for $15,000 and the Turner contract calls for $20,000.

Lloyd sees room for 19 in program

Washington, D.C. — Congressman Jim Lloyd, (D-35th Dist.), has announced applications are available for the 1978-79 White House Fellowship program.

Approximately 19 highly motivated Americans in the early stages of their careers will be selected. They will serve as special assistants to cabinet members, and will participate in an extensive educational program consisting of off-the-record seminar meetings with national government leaders.

The program brings into federal government youth and new ideas and approaches. The individuals selected return to their former careers after their year in Washington with a thorough understanding and working knowledge of the process of government at the highest executive level.

Further information about this unique program may be obtained by writing the President's Commission on White House Fellowships, Washington, D.C. 20415.

Protect the children

Prevent future deaths by poison

There were 56 fatalities due to accidental poisoning in San Bernardino County during 1976 according to the American National Red Cross.

Of the 3,700 persons who States from swallowing poisons, about 10 per cent of them are children who are too young to read.

The local deaths were recorded by the Office of Statistics of the San Bernardino County Health Department. Most of them could have been prevented by following simple procedures which the Red Cross incorporates in its first aid program.

Ruth Schindler, R.N. and chairman of nursing and health programs for the San Bernardino County Chapter of the Red Cross, urges parents of young children who can't understand the "poison" warnings on labels, to take special measures to keep such toxic substances out of their reach. "Many items in common use around the house are poisonous," Schindler noted. "They include detergents and other cleaners, waxes, polishes, turpentine and pesticides." Such products are seldom thought of as toxic by parents using them.

According to a recent article, first aid instructions on containers of medications and common household products may be misleading or even "hazardous to health" if followed literally, the Red Cross reports. For instance, advising victims to swallow fruit juices or vinegar after ingesting certain corrosives may make the situation worse instead of better. Also, the advice to drink salt solutions can be "toxic to the point of causing death," especially to children under five years of age, the article revealed, and sometimes vital information is left out, such as "do not induce vomiting."

What is the answer to the dangers? Individuals are encouraged to enroll in a course, "Health in the Home and First Aid," offered by the county chapter, Schindler said. Poison prevention and what to do when someone has been poisoned are taught in the class. The local Red Cross Chapter, 209 E. I St., Ontario, can provide a schedule of first aid classes.

Despite plea for voter approval

Supervisors finalize salary hike

Despite a final plea to let voters decide the issue, county supervisors went ahead Monday with the 8 per cent pay increase they voted themselves last week, boosting their salaries to nearly $25,000.

The supervisors gave final approval Monday to the ordinance which authorizes the pay increase, from the present $22,998 in salary and fees to $24,844, starting Oct. 8.

That will raise their salaries to a level recommended by the 1976-77 grand jury — an average paid to supervisors in five other Southern California counties with which San Bernardino County compares its regular employee salaries.

On behalf of two citizen groups, Anna Mae Frieling, a San Bernardino resident, called on the three supervisors present to delay final approval of the salary ordinance until all five supervisors could be present. However, they approved it anyway.

She urged the supervisors to do the following:

— Allow voters to decide supervisors' salaries by initiating an amendment to the county charter.

— Designate themselves as full-time officials, also by initiating an amendment to the county charter. The charter now says the chairman of the board of supervisors is a full-time position but doesn't mention the other members.

— Allow voters to decide who should complete an unexpired term on the board of supervisors, rather than let the remaining supervisors appoint someone to a vacancy. This would also require an amendment to the charter.

Mrs. Frieling said she didn't have any quarrel with the size of this year's raise, unlike last year, when the supervisors attempted to increase their salaries by almost 40 per cent, from $21,612 to $30,178. (The supervisors settled for a 5 per cent raise, to $22,692 plus fees.)

Mrs. Frieling's plea for a delay of the latest pay raise was seen as an attempt to force one of the absent supervisors, Robert L. Hammock of San Bernardino, to cast his vote specifically in favor of it. The other absent supervisor, Dennis L. Hansberger of Yucaipa, had voted for it last week.

Although Hammock was absent last week, he sent a message in support of the 8 per cent raise recommended by the grand jury but said an additional cost-of-living increase was out.

Mrs. Frieling cited literature distributed on behalf of Hammock's campaign for supervisor last year in which Hammock apparently pledged he would not vote himself a pay raise.

In one "Dear Voter" letter presented by Mrs. Frieling, Hammock was quoted as saying, "If the public is forced to tighten their belts, so should the county government."

In another piece of campaign literature, Hammock's stand on last year's 40 per cent pay raise was stated as follows: "Bob Hammock feels that the voting public should decide what we pay our county board of supervisors."

County program to aid 2,845

A total of 2,845 San Bernardino County youths will be served by the Summer Program for Economically Disadvantaged Youth, the board of supervisors has been told.

The summer employment program will focus on youth between 14 and 21. Primary recruitment emphasis is on those determined to be most in need of the summer opportunities.

In addition to actual worksite experience, each participant's learning experience will include job application techniques, interviewing for jobs, researching job clusters, employee responsibilities and career decision-making skills.

A wide range of worksites has been selected for this year's program. Selection of sites is determined by a variety of factors:

— Ability of the employer to provide work experience to match the participant's aptitude, interests and abilities.

— Employment experience will be meaningful over nine weeks at an average of 20 to 26 hours per week.

— The willingness and ability of supervisors to effectively.

— An assessment of the worksite in its ability to comply with child labor laws and standards.

— Health and safety considerations. Four employers will participate this summer. County schools will take care of 1,195 job slots; the City of San Bernardino, 400; West End Multiservice Center, 1,040 and County Client Service Unit, 210.

There Are Two Types of Arthritics —You Could Be One of Them

By DR. WES HELZER, D.C.

Maybe it's time someone spoke frankly about arthritis.

A number of individuals advise arthritics to restrict your activities ... relax, take it easy and don't use that painful joint. And here, take these pain pills.

Quite frankly, that advice is so dangerous it frightens me.

Face the facts. The more an arthritic restricts his or her activities the more prone he or she is to a recurrence of an arthritic attack. And the "Take it easy" period gets longer and longer until the person reaches the point of no return.

You just simply can't dig yourself out of a hole.

And as for pain killers, the more they're taken the less effective they become and the more they must be taken. It's quite a vicious circle.

What causes arthritis?

A number of causative factors must be considered in answering that question. The condition can be due to an injury sustained earlier in life ... it could be as much as 15 years previously. Heredity may share the blame. It can be due to an infection.

Now, osteo or degenerative arthritis frequently affects hard-working people. For instance, a man who uses his back in his work. Housework, and especially ironing, can be the culprit in a woman's case. Or it may be an old athletic injury manifesting itself.

Arthritis knows no age barrier. It frequently strikes people in their 30's and 40's. And the number of cases now known to exist in the United States is astronomical.

What does an arthritic condition mean?

Commonly it means a stiffness and soreness in the back. The pain is such that it's difficult for a person to move quickly.

In the beginning, the condition comes and goes. The joints swell, there is soreness in the muscles. As an arthritic condition begins to make itself known all bodily functions are slowed.

There is frequent constipation, dizziness and often headaches. Chest pains, arm pains, knee pains ... they all can be related. And frequently there is fatigue ... chronic fatigue. I might add.

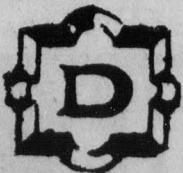

An arthritic begins to lose interest in activities that require action. They "don't get around" as they once did.

Now, as I've noted, these conditions come and go ... weather and the barometer can be a factor in bringing on a bout with arthritis. Or maybe a golf game or a quickened pace of hard work.

But as time goes by the attacks become more frequent and last longer. In time the condition is permanently painful.

Chronic alcoholism

EDITOR'S NOTE: Health Tips is a column of the California Medical Education and Research Foundation, prepared and edited by physician members of the California Medical Association. It is reprinted by this newspaper as a public service.

Alcoholism is, in large part, a hidden disease. Most chronic alcoholics are not the easily identifiable "drunk."

In chronic alcoholism tolerance to relatively high levels of blood alcohol has developed. "Tolerance" means the absence of outward or speech changes, or nausea in the nonalcoholic individual. Intoxication by a few drinks is characteristic of an inexperienced drinker, although it also may occur when an individual has advanced alcoholic liver disease.

Most chronic alcoholics develop tolerance in their 20's and 30's and maintain a high tolerance for many years before decompensation occurs. "Decompensation" means medical complications such as alcoholic disease of the liver, chronic brain disorders, or social and occupational disruption which leads to divorce, loss of job, drunk-driving and arrest records, etc.

During the period of developing and maintaining tolerance the individual tends to function "normally." This period of "compensated" chronic alcoholism is the vital time when prophylaxis or preventive care is most likely to be effective in reducing the eventual ravages of chronic alcoholism.

Unfortunately, society at large, even physicians, exhibits a self-conscious attitude toward designating these individuals as "alcoholic." The term is associated with public drunkenness, silly or irresponsible behavior or end-state medical conditions—categories that do not apply to most chronic alcoholics.

Chronic alcoholism is a condition which carries with it an enhanced risk of future decompensation—medical, psychological, social, occupational. It is not immoral, degrading or disgraceful. It is not a crime.

Detection of chronic alcoholism usually requires careful observation of a person's drinking behavior and an appraisal of his or her reaction to high blood-alcohol levels. Once it is detected, there remains the difficult task of "confrontation." This is the process of presenting evidence that the person will accept as proof of his or her tolerance to alcohol. Then comes information and education about the nature of alcoholism and the recovery process.

The purpose of detection, confrontation and education is to enable chronic alcoholic individuals to know and accept:

— That they have a problem;

— That the consequences of continued alcohol consumption are severe and;

— That there are proven methods to help them change their patterns of behavior to protect them from the ravages of alcoholism.

Here are some facts about chronic alcoholics:

— Most chronic alcoholics are not drunks. Drunkenness is not necessarily typical chronic alcoholic behavior.

— Many chronic alcoholics appear sober.

— Many people who are obviously intoxicated are not chronic alcoholics.

— Chronic alcoholism is not a moral disease nor a sign of weakness of character, lack of backbone or will power.

— Most chronic alcoholics do not admit they are chronic alcoholics.

— Chronic alcoholism is neither mostly a medical illness nor mostly a psychiatric disorder nor mostly a social aberration.

— Chronic alcoholics do not always develop cirrhosis of the liver, become drunk drivers or derelicts, abuse their spouses and children, end up in jail, nor commit suicide.

— Most drunks were chronic alcoholics for many years before they were recognized as drunks.

— Most chronic alcoholics are always alcoholics but may be distinguished as drinking or nondrinking alcoholics (wet or dry).

— Alcoholics rarely recover or stop drinking permanently without help.

— Most chronic alcoholics are susceptible to abusing other drugs such as tobacco, sedatives, etc.

— Most chronic alcoholics are not members of A.A. (Alcoholics Anonymous) or any other treatment program.

Quickie cure for bad habits

Nail-biting, teeth-grinding, finger-sucking and squinting. These are bad habits you can break in a day!

Psychologists Nathan H. Azrin and R. Gregory Nunn tell how you can do it in an Aug. 23 Family Circle article, which details the successful method their own experiments show reduced habits by 90 per cent on the first day alone—and 99 per cent by the end of the first month.

As with most problems, the first important step for breaking an undesirable habit is to develop an awareness of it. Stand in front of a mirror, suggest the psychologists, and slowly act out the habit, examining each movement carefully. This will ready you for the next step, which, they say, is to make a written note every time it occurs. Awareness should increase and thereby cut the problem's frequency.

Another effective tactic, and the keynote of Azrin and Nunn's approach, is to use a competing reaction. For instance, nail-biters should try the clenching reaction: Grab an object or make a fist whenever the impulse to bite occurs. Exert enough pressure to feel it on your fingers and hold for three minutes.

Whatever reaction you choose, the psychologists stress the fact that the competing reaction must make occurrence of your habit impossible.

Chiropractic information line opened "To better serve and protect the public, the California Chiropractic Association has established a toll-free (800) telephone number," announced Dr. Lowry Morton, president.

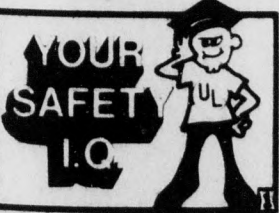

The toll free number is (800) 252-0206. People may call 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday through Friday.

"The purpose of this service is to provide the public a means of obtaining accurate information about the chiropractic profession in general; information about chiropractic colleges; how to handle complaints about an individual doctor; and, if requested, to provide the caller with a referral to a CCA-member doctor," he said.

"Misinformation and a prejudiced viewpoint about chiropractic has been perpetuated upon the public by political medicine for too long, and it is about time consumers were given an opportunity to learn first hand what chiropractic really is all about," Morton said.

Rheumatism

Considerable research progress in understanding what causes the breakdown of cartilage in osteoarthritis is being reported during World Rheumatism Year, according to the Arthritis Foundation.

'Quo Vadis?'

"Quo Vadis?" will be shown 8:15 p.m. Aug. 14 and 21 at the Valley Community Drive-In Church (drive-in only), Lone Hill Avenue and Covina Boulevard San Dimas. The first half will be shown this Sunday and the last half Aug. 21.

The movie tells the story of Marcus Vinicius, an aristocratic Roman legion commander who falls in love with a beautiful Christian woman, Lygia, and drops into disfavor. It includes the condemnation of Christians to the lion-filled arena, triumphal marches through the streets of the pagan capital, and the final fiery destruction of the city. Admission is free. A voluntary offering will be received.

In the 8:30 and 10 a.m. worship services Sunday, Pastor Melvin De Vries will preach on "God Depends on You." Sunday school will be at 10 a.m. for children in sixth grade and younger and at 11:15 a.m. for youth in seventh through adult.

The fiesta will feature three live dance bands: Dave Miron and Orchestra 6-10 p.m. Aug. 19 and 20; Mariachi San Luis 1-2:30 p.m. Aug. 21; and Los Alegres De Modena 3:30-7 p.m. Aug. 21. Mariachi San Luis will also appear 11 a.m. Aug. 21 for a special mariachi mass.

Church camp

Some 85 youths from Northminster Presbyterian Church in Diamond Bar will spend Aug. 14-20 at Calvin Crest, a church camp located 30 miles south of Yosemite. The young people, from fourth grade through high school age, have been making the annual trek for the past five years. Stressed at camp are relationships with God and others, Biblical teachings of Jesus, and creative expression. Upon their return, the campers will participate in the Aug. 21 worship service, sharing their experiences. Counselors Frank and Jeannie Hatfield will lead the 8:45 a.m. service for the whole family. Other counselors will be Jerry Barry, Sharon Walker and Hazel Beidleman. The meditation at the 10 a.m. service in which the campers will participate is "Once upon a mountain." For more information call (714) 595-4715.

Covina Adventist

Saturday will be Higher Education Day at Covina Seventh-day Adventist Church. Emphasis will be on Oakwood College in Huntsville, Alabama, to be helped by funds collected in North American churches. A goal of $200,000 has been set.

The school was founded in 1896 as an industrial manual arts training school and evolved as a junior college in 1917 and a senior college in 1943. Oakwood, with an interracial faculty and student body, serves a predominance of black students. Among its thousands of graduates are 90 per cent of the church's black leadership. Since 1959 when the annual offering for Oakwood began, enrollment has grown from 328 to 1,171, making it the sixth largest undergraduate denominational school in the North American division.

Recent major projects include a religion department church complex, now under construction, and a large factory for Harris Furniture's newest assembly plant, to provide work for students. Because of its special needs, Oakwood receives General Conference subsidies and nearly $500,000 a year from regional conferences in addition to the annual North American offering.

Witnesses hold 108 conventions

Jehovah's Witnesses are convening this summer in 63 cities throughout the United States with 108 total conventions on the agenda.

Kar Ban Leung, spokesman for the group in Cucamonga, said nearly one million persons are expected at the "Joyful Workers" district conventions.

Leung said 1,000 delegates from the greater Pomona Valley are attending a four-day assembly at Hollywood Park Race Track, Inglewood. Leung added that 24,000 persons are anticipated for the meeting Aug. 11-14.

"It has been revealed that 2,333,115 persons attended our conventions worldwide in 1976," Leung said. "This included meetings in 56 countries. This year an even greater number of assemblies are being arranged. This will make it convenient for more persons to attend."

The conventions are designed to discuss the resurges affecting modern society in day-to-day living. The program is divided into four sections including information on training children, responsibility of youth in today's world, making a success of marriage, and the problems affecting family life.

Highlight of the convention will be the its Sunday evening film series 7 p.m. Aug. 14 with the showing of "Daktar." Based on the best-selling biography "Daktar, Diplomat in Bangladesh," the movie tells the true story of Dr. Viggo Olsen and his heroic efforts during the Bangladesh war. Long after most other Americans had to leave the country, Dr. Olsen and two other medical missionaries stayed behind to staff the Memorial Christian Hospital in Chittagong. Through the heaviest part of the fighting and with their lives in danger, they continued to minister the message of Jesus Christ while meeting the physical needs of the people around them.

"Long before the war Dr. Olsen was known and respected by the Bengalis. Since risking his life and showing the love of God in difficult circumstances he has forever endeared himself in the hearts of one of the newest and most populated nations in the world," said a church spokesperson.

The church is located at 170 N. San Dimas Ave., San Dimas. The public is invited free of charge. For more information call (714) 599-1114.

Making the club alive

Dear Anita,
I'm climbing the corporate ladder, but getting to the top is bound to be a battle. Frankly, I'm not sure it's worth it. I've been to several funerals lately, most for corporate executives. Can you advise me how to get into the executive club - alive?

J. S., San Francisco

Dear J.S.,
That's a tall order. Our society defines success as entrance into that kind of club - but we pay for it in many ways.

You have one privilege not allowed men, provided you exercise it privately: to express your emotions. Physicians and psychologists agree this is normal and healthy. Men should realize that "keeping a stiff upper lip" under every circumstance is neither normal nor healthy.

You are facing an issue that affects men deeply. A Hennig and Hardim point out in "The Managerial Woman," with more women entering the labor force and with laws mandating equal treatment, men must adjust to training those who are different not only in culture but in gender - and then accepting them at a level usually defined as a male preserve.

Corporations have become so structured and task-oriented that feelings are considered illegitimate, according to these authors. Men must like their resentment - as well as other feelings. As a result, the corporate environment is often sterile and unproductive.

It is economic justice to women that they be accepted. It will be beneficial to the total work environment if men and women behave more humanely towards each other in that environment - for women are becoming more essential to it. Our children will soon be entering it.

The basic issue of the individual's right to survival is at stake here. Our best hope is to work for a better quality of work environment for the corporate world, and for human relationships.

Anita Miller

Dear Anita,
I have paid into Social Security since its inauguration, except while my children were young. Since my husband's death, I have been receiving $272 in survivor's benefits. My question is, when I'm 62 will I also be entitled to receive benefits from my own Social Security contributions?

K.J., Reseda

Dear K.J.,
The sad fact is that, under present regulations, for married women, you will actually receive no more benefits from the Social Security taxes you have paid than you would have realized had you never worked at all.

The Social Security system was based on the principle that it would replace earned income for employed workers. The assumption was that these workers would be employed continually and their incomes would increase steadily.

These assumptions, of course, do not apply to women. Most, like you, spend some years rearing children, and their incomes rarely reflect a steady increase.

Your only option is to either take your own retirement pension averaged over the years you worked or the benefit due as a surviving spouse.

The Social Security now penalizes women in many ways. Divorced women receive no benefits on the basis of the husband's income if they were married less than 20 years. Pensions are determined by their life-time earnings, which may be pitifully small.

You should let your congressional representatives know of your concern. Congress is presently considering several measures which would correct inequities in the Social Security system.

ty system.

Anita Miller

Dear Anita,
I'm in a state of shock. I'm 56, married 20 years, and my husband is divorcing me to marry a younger woman. I worked most of my life as a nurse to insure a comfortable retirement. Now I stand to lose my home and I have no income. I can't get a job. Can you offer any advice?

D. S., Riverside

Dear D.S.,
Your feelings of hopelessness are common to women undergoing divorce under your circumstances. But they are not permanent; you need to give yourself time.

In today's tight job market, both men and women face age discrimination. Seek out employers who hire older workers. Some companies try to mix young and mature workers for balance. Mature women offer experience in dealing with crisis, can make decisions quickly, and work because they want to.

Be sure your attorney fights for fair treatment of the division of your assets. Attorneys in divorce cases might note recent comments in the Los Angeles Times by Judge Robert Garner of the 14th District Court of Appeals. He wrote that divorce cannot be used as "A handy vehicle for summary disposal of old and used wives."

However, where the woman is for all intents and purposes unemployable, the husband simply has to face up to the fact that his support responsibilities are going to be of extended duration - perhaps for life. This has nothing to do with feminism, sexism, male chauvinism or any other trendy social ideology. It is ordinary common sense, basic decency and simple justice."

Hopefully, more divorce attorney attempts and court will recognize the plight of mature divorcees and consider the difficulties they face through the remainder of their lives.

Costly representation

By Richard Lesher
President
United States
Chamber of Commerce

Did you know that you are generously providing your congress-persons with free combs and brushes?

Also free health care (excluding hospitalization, which is merely subsidized), free travel, free postage, free parking, free potted plants (cut flowers in season), free picture frames, free use of prints from the National Gallery, free massages, free steamer trunks — that's right, steamer trunks — and, for those who are no longer able to take advantage of the other free services, free funerals.

All this and much more goes with the territory, according to author Robert Shrum, a recent guest on one of our National Chamber radio programs.

What about those famous junkies abroad? Well, Congress puts the cost of such "fact finding missions" at $1.4 million for 1976...but "I.S. News & World Report" magazine says the true figure is more like $2.5 million.

That's just the trivial stuff, of course. To start with the basics, each senator and representative now receives an annual salary of $57,500 a year, following a 29 per cent pay raise in February. The legislators cleverly noted to give themselves the raise without having to vote on it. Subsequently embarrassed by the outcry, they pledged to vote on the next one. The way it works, they don't vote on the raise, they do get, and do vote on those they don't get. Understand?

A senator is allowed up to $900,000 to pay his or her staff, depending on the number of constituents. For a representative, the top figure is $255,000. They also have sizable allowances for telephones, telegrams, newsletters, field office costs, and 26 round trips back home each year — plus six free trips for staff members. These allowances now average about $48,000 a year for a representative, and run from $30,000 to $75,000 for a senator.

Add up the costs directly attributable to one member of the House, say, and it amounts to more than $500,000 a year. (Last fall, I mentioned a pre-raise figure of $489,000 in another column, and I'm still getting calls asking for the details.)

But that's only the tip of the iceberg. There's a lot more to Congress than congressmen — and women. There are also the marble halls — more and more of them. The newest of the three House office buildings — the Rayburn Building — was at the time of its construction the most costly structure in history. The Senate is now building a third office building for itself. The House is making noises about a fourth. And the House Appropriations Committee has just approved a $55 million extension of the west front of the Capitol building, the side facing the mall. You might say Congress has a monumental edifice complex.

In addition to the buildings, there are the thousands of employees who people them — "support troops" like printers, maintenance personnel, guards, elevator operators, food service employees, etc., as well as the highly paid professionals on the various committee staffs — none of whom is counted against a member's office staff allowance.

From 1965 to 1975, congressional employment grew 84 per cent. For comparison, during the same period the population grew 10 per cent, executive branch employment grew 12 per cent and gross national product (adjusted for inflation) grew 29 per cent.

Add it all up and you find that it now costs almost $1 billion a year to run Congress, a sum which was more than sufficient to run the entire federal government as recently as 1916. Per-member, that's more than $1.5 million.

Enough? Well, no. On top of all those benefits, some members of congress are after one more. They want the taxpayers to help finance their campaign costs.

To be fair, I should point out that not all members avail themselves of all of these free and subsidized services, nor do they all use 100 per cent of their staff allowances. A principled few wage a lonely war to cut back on the lavish life style.

Even the majority cannot be pictures as across-the-board spendthrifts. In some areas they watch costs very closely. House beauty shop operators, for example, get no pensions, no life insurance, no health insurance and no salary — they have to work on commission.

Conference on aging planned

A statewide conference on aging hosted by the Greater Los Angeles Community Action Agency (GLACAA) will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 16 and 17 at the Hacienda Hotel, 525 Sepulveda Blvd., El Segundo.

Overall goal of the conference is to strengthen the cooperative relationships between agencies and persons providing services to senior citizens in California, said Martin Samaniego, GLACAA executive director.

Registration for the conference will take place 1-2 p.m. Tuesday. The first day sessions, which begin at 2 p.m., will focus on identification of five "operational" issues which will be addressed the second day of the conference. Policy and resource constraints of federal/state and poverty programs will also be discussed.

Sponsors of the conference include the California Commission on Aging, Administration on Aging, Community Services Administration, California State Economic Opportunity Office, Cal-Neva Community Action Agencies Association, and the National Council on Aging.

During the second day of the conference Janet Levy, director of the California Department on Aging; Dave Singleton, interim director of California State

Office of Economic Opportunity; Frankie Jacobs Gillette, aging expert from the Community Services Administration; and Jack McCarthy, regional director of the Administration on Aging, will participate in a panel discussion on policies and direction and resource limitations.

Emphasizing that no registration fees will be involved, Samaniego said, however, that early registration is necessary. "Only 200 reservations are available for lunch, but there is no limitation on the numbers who may attend the conference," he said.

Persons interested in attending the conference should send their names, along with their organizational affiliation to Willi Hanson, State Office of Economic Opportunity, 555 Capitol Mall, Room 325, Sacramento, Calif. 95814.

Mobilehome park owners oppose rent control bill

Owners and operators of 196,000 rental spaces in more than 1,500 California mobilehome parks have reaffirmed their opposition to Assembly Bill 450, the controversial rent control bill that faces action by the state's Senate Judiciary Committee in August.

Park owners voiced renewed opposition to the bill proposed by Assemblyman Terry Goggin, (D-66) at last month's meeting of the Western Mobilehome Association (WMA), business organization for the parks. AB-450 is the bill to control rents in mobilehome parks.

Thomas P. Kerr, WMA executive director, said the organization's board of directors reaffirmed its opposition to the bill in light of several "misleading" amendments that were added to the bill in the state assembly.

Kerr said that the association remains opposed to mobilehome park rent control legislation. The association believes mobilehomes should be considered an integral part of the housing market and not singled out in special legislation.

"Mobilehomes account for 10 percent of the available housing in California and are a significant part of the total housing mix," he said. "With the average cost of a new house in this state at more than $56,000, more people are looking for reasonably priced housing. Mobilehomes often provide a lower-cost alternative."

WMA believes that the legislature is attacking a symptom of the state's high cost housing problems instead of dealing with the root causes. One of those, according to WMA, is that mobilehome owners presently pay only a fixed license fee to the California Department of Motor Vehicles, rather than the regular ad valorem property tax. Park owners, not residents, pay property tax on the land.

Kerr pointed out that historically the value of rent controlled properties has dropped with a resultant loss of local tax revenue. Under rent control the single family homeowner must pick up an even greater share of the tax burden in support of local government and would be further subsidizing mobilehome owners.

"Some cities and counties want mobilehomes added to the local tax rolls," said Kerr, "and that should probably be considered. In the meantime, AB-450 will only complicate economic problems."

A San Diego County park owner, anticipating passage of the bill, already has served notice to his tenants that his park will close in one year, Kerr noted. He said that action will put nearly 300 mobilehome owners on the street, because San Diego County has few, if any, mobilehome park vacancies.

"Mobilehome park owners fear that, if the state Senate passes this bill, mobilehome parks throughout the state will be in serious financial trouble," Kerr said.

The association blames inflation in the housing market which has pushed the average price of single-family homes in places such as Orange County to more than $100,000.

"We understand and appreciate the problems of tenants," Kerr said. "That's why WMA has sponsored legislation mandating one-year leases when a tenant requests one from the park. That would protect the tenant from frequent rent hikes for the duration of the lease."

"Assembly Bill 450 is only the tip of the iceberg," he said. "The bill, as it stands, won't solve anything."

Stage review

Longwill stars in play

By Don Ham
Editor

Ed Longwill played a strong, emotive Steven Gaye last week in Samson Raphaelson's comedy-drama "Accent on Youth" at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona.

Longwill succeeded in creating the witty and brilliant Gaye, who is a New York playwright in the mid-1930s. He brings to life Raphaelson's intriguing story about an older man who falls in love with a younger woman, only to lose her to a young actor.

The play is made more interesting because it follows a play Gaye has just written about a similar situation and involving youth and age.

Raphaelson manages, in an extremely entertaining way, to introduce the main characters, introduce them and the audience to Gaye's new play, and eventually involve each of the main characters in a plot with a similar theme.

In the opening scene, Gaye, a 51-year-old playwright with graying hair, talks to each of the actors and actresses he has chosen to perform his play.

These include Genevieve Land (Wendi Radford), a young, beautiful, and pompous star who loves Gaye but is thwarted in her attempts to show him this love. The interactions between her and Gaye are realistic and full of playful and irritating bickering.

Frank Galloway (Monte Van Vleet) is the old man Gaye has chosen to play the old man in his play. He is a likeable character who soon becomes Gaye's close friend.

Lyn-Dee Leimas plays Miss Darling, a middle-aged woman who is asked to play the older woman in the play.

Dickie Reynolds, played by Steve Henderson, is the young actor who falls in love with Linda Brown, (Adrienne Stiff), who is Gaye's lover.

Linda, at first just Gaye's secretary, announces her love for him after being fired from her job, then becomes the successful lead actress in his new play, and then becomes very happy as Gaye's girlfriend.

The story revolves around Dickie's infatuation with Linda, her unsuccessful marriage with him, and the relationship Linda and Gaye establish after they get together again.

Besides Longwill's incredible job as Gaye, credit should be given to David Koch who was the perfect, punctual, festidious butler Flogdell in Gaye's New York study, where all the action takes place. As Flogdell, Koch is the perfect gentleman's gentleman, who not only worships and loves his boss but on several occasions breaks down and has a drink with Gaye, and even plays checkers and arm wrestles with Frank Galloway.

If there were any rough spots in the play, they involved the lack of definition of the characters, specifically Linda Brown, Dickie Reynolds and the two detectives, Butch (Bruce Freddman) and Chuck (Mike Miller).

Miss Stiff's Linda Brown seemed technically accurate but lacked the personality change that should have occurred as she became an actress, then Gaye's lover, then a wife. She didn't change as her situations and roles changed.

And Henderson seemed to have the same problem. You just didn't know exactly who he was.

The detectives came across as comical, as they were supposed to be, but lacked the dress, size and stature of "strong-arm men."

But the play is involving and entertaining despite these few shortcomings. The big surprise was that only 15 people showed up at the second performance.

The play, more entertaining than Cal Poly's

"The Mad Show" which is currently playing on weekends, should have been shown on weekends instead. It probably would have drawn a larger audience.

"Accent on Youth" will play again 8 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 17 and 9 p.m. Aug. 11 and 18 in the Cabaret Theatre.

"The Mad Show," a musical comedy by Larry Siegel and Stan Hart based on Mad magazine, will play 9 p.m. Aug. 12, 13, 19 and 20 in the Cabaret Theatre.

For tickets to either play call (714) 598-4546.

Nureyev with Canadian ballet

The National Ballet of Canada, with guest star Rudolf Nureyev, will make its first appearance at the outdoor Greek Theatre in Griffith Park, Los Angeles, beginning Aug. 29 and ending Sept. 10.

The 100 member company, under the Artistic Direction of former Royal Ballet star Alexander Grant, is being presented in this exclusive West Coast appearance of the year by James M. Nederlander and S. A. Gorlinsky.

The full symphony orchestra will be under the baton of George Crum, Musical Director, and his Associate, John Goss.

Repertoire for the 12 scheduled performances - selected by Messrs. Nureyev and Grant to make use of the spectacular natural setting of the Greek Theatre - includes Peter Wright's production of "Giselle" and Erik Bruhn's version of "Swan Lake."

In addition, a triple bill of balletic fireworks will offer the first Los Angeles performances of Hans Van Manen's "Four Schumann Pieces," Act IV of the Russian classic "Bayerka" and Antony Tudor's one-act fantasy, "Offenbach in the Underworld."
